Mike Hellgren has the latest on the case. Moses Brown was a standout football and baseball player at Mount St. Mary's. Then just 17, he was gunned down outside the graduation party celebrating the Class of 2014, just as the graduate programs were starting. "It's like, you just feel yourself go numb after you first found out," Moses' close friend Eric Williams said, fighting back tears. None of them saw the tragedy coming. "We were there as a group. We had a good time. We danced together. We're a close-knit family. We had a good time. It was good," Eric said. One on one, with all that's happened, it's been difficult for Eric to bear. "It was very hard. It was tough. I wouldn't wish this on nobody," he said. Moses' mom is struggling to deal with it, too. "I'm thinking about what I did wrong. I don't know," she said. Moses' mom cannot hear the details of what happened that night. And while the family is struggling to cope with their tragedy, there is another very important
